

About the organisation summary

The organisation list shows you all the organisations below you, the number of accounts at each and organisation identifiers where they are different. It is accessed by the organisations button ( ) on the homepage or in the menu bar. You can access the account details or impersonate the sub-organisations directly from the page by clicking the username or using the impersonate button ( ):

The page is generated when you access it so shows the number of accounts present at the time you open the page - accounts created whilst you have the page open will not appear until the next time you open the page. Sub-organisations are indented to show relationships. There is a field chooser ( ) to select which columns are important to you and hovering over the number of accounts will show a breakdown of that number by type:

Anything to watch out for?

Because this is generated live, having a large number of sub-organisations and user accounts below you can cause the page to take a little time to load completely. A progress bar is displayed.
